Addresses Daughters. The Norfolk Landmark of yesterday says: Monday afternoon at the pretty white and red room of the Suffolk Daughters of the Confederacy, Mrs. A. J. Montague, of Richmond, Va., made an earnest appeal to the members of the Daughters of the Confederacy for help for the Home for Needy Confederate Women in Richmond.

Montague was gracefully introduced by Miss Anna Mary Riddick, president of the chapter, and talked for nearly an hour on the cause which is evidently on the speaker's heart. She spoke of the pressing need of the home, its struggles, and in her modest, gracious manner impressed her hearers with the importance of helping this worthy cause. The speaker is a woman of winning personality, and had her hearers' sympathy from the first.

A number of representative women of the chapter were present, and the cause for which the speaker pleaded was unanimously indorsed. Also, on motion, a generous box was voted to be sent each year.

While no money was provided, it is safe to say that the Suffolk chapter will consider the advisability of supporting an inmate when the work is taken up in the fall. Mrs. Montague, while in Suffolk, was the guest of Miss Anna Mary Riddick, president of the Daughters in Suffolk.

THE BLACKSTONE FIGHT.

Connel Not Prepared to Say Whether There Will be Further Proceedings.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] NEWPORT NEWS, VA., June 17.—C. Ayld Ashby, of counsel for former Judge J. W. G. Blackstone, said tonight that he had written to Judge Blackstone at his home in Accomac, asking him to come here for a conference. Until after this conference is held, the attorneys will not be able to say whether or not any further attempt will be made to reinstate Judge Blackstone as judge of the Eleventh Circuit, from which position he was ousted by the General Assembly.

The Virginia Supreme Court yesterday denied Judge Blackstone's petition for a mandamus compelling Judge Clarence W. Robinson to vacate the bench in his favor. As the court sustained a demurrer of the defendant, the petitioner's attorneys think they may ask for a rehearing and institute other proceedings.
